Teacher-Powered Schools
Coaching and Workshops 2023

Teacher-Powered Schools (TPS) is dedicated to promoting and supporting the development of schools that share power with the site's educator team, students, and families. As part of that support we have a wide range of free resources available on our website, www.teacherpowered.org. We also suggest that teacher teams sign up to receive our monthly e-newsletter and schedule virtual or in person visits to other teacher-powered schools to see first hand what this looks like in practice.

For those teams that would like more personalized support, TPS also offers a range of options. Each option allows the educator team to have dedicated time with our teacher-powered staff, and coaches. Our team is available by video conferencing, phone, email and, when geographically possible, in person.

Our expertise and focus is on collaborative leadership, shared decision making with educator teams, students, and families, and creating student-centered learning environments. In all of our work with teams we:
- Keep students at the center of decision-making
- Build on teams' strengths and interests to create successful and sustainable structures and practices for shared leadership
- Improve practices around student agency, voice, and ownership of their learning

We are available on an hourly basis as well as for workshops and professional development days. Please contact Amy Junge at amy@educationevolving.org for more information.
